
Do the people living in these endemic areas continue to get sick of malaria?

By jerome

Published: 2007-08-07 11:03

Persons who are living in malaria endemic areas may develop partial immunity to the disease. However, they may not manifest symptoms of malaria but when their blood smear is examined under the microscope, one can see malaria parasites in his/her blood smear.